Christmas Bells

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old, familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

And thought how, as the day had come,
The belfries of all Christendom
Had rolled along
The unbroken song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

Till, ringing, singing on its way,
The world revolved from night to day,
A voice, a chime,
A chant sublime
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

Then from each black, accursed mouth
The cannon thundered in the South,
And with the sound
The carols drowned
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

It was as if an earthquake rent
The hearth-stones of a continent,
And made forlorn
The households born
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!

And in despair I bowed my head;
"There is no peace on earth," I said;
"For hate is strong:
And mocks the song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!"

Then pealed the bells more loud and deep:
"God is not dead; nor doth he sleep!
The Wrong shall fail,
The Right prevail,
With peace on earth, good-will to men!"
Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Foreword

THE best books for a child are the books that widen his world. A man or woman in middle life or old age who loves poetry, and great pictures and statues, is familiar with Shakespeare, and has historic sense, imagination, a sense of humor, and a love of nature, is full of resources and the joy of living. No one can ever have the fullness of these resources and that joy who has not had them from earliest childhood." Caroline M. Hewins.

This list suggests the books, some of which, at least, every child should have the joy of owning. Many of these are the old books "which Time has criticized for us," books which many children have known and loved. Much care has been taken to list the best editions with the most characteristic and beautiful illustrations. In many cases, cheaper editions have also been noted. Some books of more ephemeral value have been included. Many attractive French and German books have been omitted on account of the possible difficulty of getting them this year.

The compiler gratefully acknowledges indebtedness to the Christmas lists published by Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, and by the public libraries of Cleveland, Louisville, New York, St. Louis and Worcester; to the lists in the Oregon and Wisconsin Commission bulletins by Clara W. Hunt and others, to the Children's catalog and the Monthly bulletin of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, the Cleveland Open shelf, C. M. Hewins's Books for boys and girls, A. C. Moore's List of books recommended for a children's library, Olcott's Selected classroom libraries, the Course of study for normal school pupils on literature for children in Dana's Modern American library economy series, and to the A. L. A. Booklist. Valuable suggestions have been received from Miss Mary E. Eastwood of the New York State Library, Mrs. Julia H. Harron of the Cleveland Public Library, and Miss Annie Carroll Moore and others of the New York Public Library, in the central children's room of which much of the work on editions was done. Unaccredited notes in quotations have been taken in most cases from the prefaces of the books, or from lists published by other libraries.

TWO TRAVEL SERIES, POPULAR WITH CHILDREN.

Peeps at many lands. Macmillan. 75c each.

"Descriptive sketches and colored pictures introducing the English child to the life, history and folk lore of various countries. The colored illustrations for this attractive series, are taken from beautiful books of travel published by Black. In some books of the series the language and treatment is too mature for all but high school children and adults. Some of these suited in interest to children from ten to fourteen, are Jungman's Holland; Grierson's Scotland; Leith's Iceland; Kelley's Burma and Egypt; Finne-more's India, Italy, The Holy Land, Japan, Morocco, and Switzerland; Johnston's China and Young's Corsica." J. H. Harron.

Little people everywhere. Little. 60c each.

"A series of 12 volumes by E. B. McDonald and Julia Dalrymple describing child life in different countries in story form, with information on customs, daily life, history, etc. The illustrations, one colored and eight or nine from photographs, are good, the paper and binding unsatisfactory. Four of the best are Kathleen in Ireland; Manuel in Mexico; Ume San in Japan; Rafael in Italy." J. H. Harron.
